GOALS AND TIMETABLES

The City of Pittsfield has set goals for hiring and promotions in job categories where the utilization analysis shows an under-utilization of minorities and women, so that in the future its workforce resembles the local labor market.

Goal setting is intended to assure that job-related criteria is used in the selection and promotion process and that artificial barriers to employment and promotion of minorities and women are removed. Goals are not quotas which restrict employment by setting limits on the number of people hired but represent a level to be achieved and not the ultimate target.

The City of Pittsfield is setting goals in a good faith effort to ensure equal employment opportunity. There are many internal and external circumstances, such as budgetary restraints and availability of persons with requisite skills, which may hinder efforts to achieve the desired workforce composition in a short period of time. The City recognizes that the plan will face challenges and re-adjustments due to the fluctuations in the fiscal situation, and the slow attrition rate prevalent in municipalities.

This policy of the City of Pittsfield sets both long-range and short-range goals to ensure that the objectives are on track.

ANTI-HARASSMENT POLICY

The City of Pittsfield fully supports the right of all persons to hold employment in or enjoy access to the City of Pittsfield without suffering sexual, racial, disability-related or other forms of harassment or discrimination. The primary focus of the City's Anti-Harassment Policy is to eradicate present forms of harassment and discrimination, and to prevent the creation of barriers and behavior that interfere with a harmonious and inclusive work environment. This policy applies to all phases of employment including, but not limited to: recruitment, hiring, transfer, promotion, salary negotiations, training, and termination. Harassment or discrimination by managers, supervisors, employees,, members of the public who use City facilities, vendors and contractors will not be tolerated. The Anti-Harassment Policy and its grievance procedure system is to encourage and promote employees' full participation within the City's workforce.

Employees of the City and applicants for City employment have the right to file a grievance on any action, procedure, or practice in the selection or employment process which they believe to be in violation of the Affirmative Action Plan, which constitutes racial, sexual or disability-related harassment, discrimination, or which is in retaliation for having filed a discrimination or harassment grievance.

DEFINITIONS:

- Sexual Harassment: See existing City Policy.
- Racial Harassment: Words, actions or other verbal, written or physical conduct which are offensive because of their racial connotation, prejudice, stereotyping or bigotry; constitutes racial harassment when such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive working environment.
- Disability-Related Harassment: Harassment on the basis of an individual's disability is a violation of the City's Affirmative Action Plan. Conduct which ridicules, scorns, mocks, intimidates, threatens, or coerces any individual due to his/her physical or mental disability or which has the effect of unreasonably interfering with work performance or creating an offensive environment is considered disability-related harassment.
- Other Harassment: Harassment on the basis of an individual's age, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, or Veteran's status is a violation of the City's Affirmative Action Plan and work rules. Conduct which ridicules, scorns, mocks, intimidates, threatens or coerces any individuals due to such status or which has the effect of unreasonably interfering with work performance or creating an offensive environment will be considered such harassment.

Supervisory personnel are responsible for ensuring that conduct between fellow employees does not rise to the level of racial, sexual or disability related harassment. Supervisory personnel will be held responsible for conduct which is known or should have been known to have created or could create racial, sexual or disability-related harassment whether perpetrated by an employee or a third party (regardless of control), unless immediate and appropriate corrective action has been taken.

Supervisory personnel must take all steps necessary to prevent racial, sexual or disability-related harassment from occurring. Such steps include trouble-shooting within the department, expressing strong disapproval for harassment and developing appropriate corrective action.

GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES

Informal/Internal:

The grievance procedure is designed to create an accessible, simple, prompt and expeditious internal review, coupled with fair and equitable resolution to alleged violation of the Affirmative Action Plan based on sexual, racial, disability-related and/or other forms of harassment or discrimination. The City encourages employees who feel they have witnessed or experienced harassment or discrimination to pursue the matter first within the City, with the confidence and expectation that the matter will be handled quickly, fairly and with prudent sensitivity.

All employees must be able to freely seek information, advice, or call attention to any work condition which the employee feels needs to be changed, without fear of retaliation. No applicant, employee, supervisor or manager shall be retaliated or discriminated against in any way for making a complaint of harassment and/or discrimination or for assisting in the investigation of such a complaint.

Collective Bargaining Agreements (Union):

There are a number of collective bargaining units and non-union groups each with different grievance procedures. Even though there are similarities among them, there is no one system which will satisfy all those concerned. Each member of a bargaining unit has the right to address his/her grievance through whatever grievance procedure system he/she chooses to follow be it union, non-union, formal or informal, EEO/AAP or directly to state or federal organizations. If an employee chooses to follow his/her own collective bargaining grievance procedure, that procedure has certain grievance steps with accompanying authority levels which must be followed up to and including arbitration.

If the employee elects to pursue his/her grievance through that unions' grievance procedure, the matter will be adjudicated through that bargaining unit agreement.

A negotiated grievance procedure is not subject to variation or interpretation and must be followed as negotiated and agreed upon affected only by precedent, past practice, demonstrated intent of the negotiating parties and guided by arbitration awards.

Affirmative Action Grievance Procedures (Non-Union):

The grievance procedure provides the individual an opportunity to present, to an impartial party, issues regarding violations of the Affirmative Action Plan, harassment or discrimination. The Affirmative Action Officers will provide managers and employees' advice and counsel regarding appropriate remedies which may be used. The grievant controls whether the issues raised are investigated or whether the conference is solely for advice and consultation.

Nothing in this procedure shall restrict the right of an employee or applicant to file a formal/external complaint with any City, State or Federal agency responsible for the enforcement of anti-discrimination laws. Throughout the grievance process, in order to protect his/her rights, the grievant can file an external formal complaint with the appropriate federal or state agency or court of law without its jeopardizing his/her rights to use this procedure.

The Affirmative Action Grievance Procedures System covers allegations in:

- Violation of the City's Affirmative Action Plan,
- Instances of racial, sexual or disability-related harassment,
- Instances of discrimination.

The grievance procedure shall be available to all employees except those who have utilized another City, State or Federal grievance, complaint or appeal processes to resolve issues.

No action will be taken by the Personnel Directors/Affirmative Action Officers without a signed grievance form. Though the following procedure involves filing a written complaint, the Personnel Directors/Affirmative Action Officers encourage employees to turn to the Personnel Office for information or counseling as soon as the need arises. If the employee wishes merely to inform the department head about a violation, harassment or the potential for such while keeping his/her identity confidential, the Personnel Directors/Affirmative Action Officers, at his/her discretion, will assist the grievant by speaking informally with the Appointing Authority.

The internal/informal grievance procedure may be processed through three steps:

1. The employee should first discuss his/her grievance with his/her immediate supervisor.
2. If the grievance remains unresolved, he/she may bring it to the attention of his/her department head for discussion and review.
3. If grievance circumstances prevent using Step 1 and 2, or if the department head does not resolve the grievance within five (5) working days, the employee may bring the grievance to the Personnel Directors/Affirmative Action Officers.

Alternative/Optional Actions:

1. If the aggrieved employee feels more comfortable with directly referring the grievance to the Personnel Directors/Affirmative Action Officers, he/she may do so without first moving through Step 1 and Step 2 of the grievance procedure.
2. If, after discussions with the Personnel Directors/Affirmative Action Officers, both the Director/Officer and the employee agree that the matter best may be directed back to another level the Directors/ Officers will be empowered to do so, but only with the concurrence of the grievant involved.
3. If the grievance involves the Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer, then the aggrieved employees may refer the grievance directly to the Appointing Authority.

Investigation:

After a written grievance form is submitted, the Affirmative Action Officers will request from the immediate supervisor and/or the party alleged to be in violation of the Affirmative Action Plan a written statement answering the allegations. The response shall be returned to the Personnel Directors/Affirmative Action Officers within three (3) working days of receipt.

If a Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer determines that the complaint is one of sexual harassment, the Directors/ Officers shall advise the complainant of options available under the City of Pittsfield's Sexual Harassment Policy and Procedure. The Personnel Directors/Affirmative Action Officers will give the complainant a copy of that Policy and Procedure.

A Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer shall attempt to resolve the issue which generated the complaint within four weeks of the time it was filed. In this process the Director/Officer shall privately interview relevant parties, examine appropriate documents and gather other essential information relevant to the complaint. The individual being interviewed may have a representative of his/her choice at the interview. During this process, the Director/Officer shall maintain confidentiality to the extent possible.

All employees are expected to cooperate in any investigation conducted by the Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer. Witnesses and relevant parties may be asked to sign written statements of their accounts. Should complainants express a desire that witnesses or other relevant parties not be interviewed they shall sign a statement explaining the desire to waive that part of the investigation.

Department heads, managers, and supervisors shall make every effort to allow the grievant sufficient time, with pay, to meet with the Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer through the investigatory stage.

Within five (5) working days after interviews are conducted, the Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer shall submit written findings of fact and remedies to the grievant, the Receiver, Appointing Authority, Department Heads and all other affected parties.

If the grievance resulted from a violation of personnel policy, the Affirmative Action Plan, or of employment law, the Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer shall take or direct appropriate administrative steps to enforce the policy, the plan or law and to resolve the grievance immediately.

If the grievance involves a question of judgment or opinion not covered by personnel policy, the plan, collective bargaining agreements, or employment law, the Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer shall counsel the employee, the supervisor and/or department head to resolve the grievance if possible.

Various methods of grievance resolution may be explored with the concurrence of the parties involved. Alternatives such as mediation, informal mediation, conciliation, or any other avenues available for settling matters by agreement may be explored by the Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer and the participants. An ancillary consideration which must be kept in mind is that if these alternative techniques are employed in such agreements, those so achieved may not contravene or invalidate any provisions of an existing collective bargaining agreement then in force to which the grievant is subject.

Formal/External:

The filing of a grievance with a Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer is not the same as filing a discrimination complaint with the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination (MCAD) and/or the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

The filing of a grievance with the Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer is a quick, informal method to resolve disputes without the necessity of litigation. A dispute filed as a formal complaint with an agency empowered to enforce anti-discrimination is adjudicated under specified laws, regulations and procedures with the purpose of determining legal responsibility for acts.

If grievance resolution fails through the informal/internal procedure, the grievant and/or Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer may use established procedures under local, state and federal agencies by filing a case with the Cities' Human Rights Commission, MCAD or the EEOC or exercise their rights in a court of law.

PITTSFIELD HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION (HRC): An integrated group of nine volunteer citizens of Pittsfield is empowered by the City Charter to investigate complaints against public and private organizations in Pittsfield when an individual or group alleges denial of equal access to, and discrimination in employment, housing, education, recreation and public accommodations, based on race, color, religion, creed, national origin, sex, age, or ancestry, marital status, sexual orientation, source of income or handicap.

The HRC may attempt mediation to resolve a complaint. In the case of a complaint against a City Department, findings and recommendations are made to the Mayor and/or the Superintendent of Schools for action.

If the HRC is unable to resolve any matter where in its opinion is a justifiable complaint, outside of the jurisdiction of the Mayor, then the HRC will recommend that the Complainant proceed to the MCAD/EEOC or other appropriate agency and will further attempt to provide the Complainant with volunteer legal assistance. Nothing precludes a Complainant from going to a State or Federal agency without first proceeding through the HRC process.

Complaints should be in writing to:

Human Rights Commission
City Hall
70 Allen St.
Pittsfield, MA 01201

MCAD - Employees have three hundred (300) days from the date which the alleged violation occurred to file a complaint with the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination. Their offices are located at:

Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination
One Ashburton Place - Room 601
Boston, Ma 02108
(617) 727-3990

EEOC - Employees may also file with the federal antidiscrimination agency; their offices are located at:

Equal Employment Opportunity Commission
One Congress Street
10th Floor - Room 1001
Boston, MA 02114
(617) 565-3200

Under current arrangement between the EEOC and the MCAD, the agency a grievant files with first has primary responsibility for investigating and resolving your case. This makes it important to know how the agencies operate.

MCAD investigations follow these steps:

1. An MCAD investigator meets with a grievant to draw up the complaint.
2. The investigator requests a position statement from the employer and may send a list of questions (called interrogatories).
3. The grievant and the employer may be asked to attend a fact-finding conference with an MCAD investigator to clarify the issues in the case or attempt to achieve a settlement.
4. The MCAD makes a finding of probable cause if the investigation indicates that a violation has occurred. Otherwise the case is dismissed.
5. Most cases are settled after the finding of probable cause, but if there is no resolution of the problem, a public hearing is scheduled before one of the three MCAD commissioners, with both sides represented by lawyers. An MCAD lawyer will represent the grievant free of charge, or the grievant may use his or her own attorney.
6. The commissioner's decision is binding unless the losing party appeals to the full commission or the courts.
7. If the grievant prevails with the MCAD and the employer appeals, the MCAD will defend its decision in court at no charge to the grievant.

The major advantage of the MCAD is its public hearing procedure. Cases can be decided without delay and expense of a court trial. The MCAD process is useful if the grievant cannot hire an attorney.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission:

Unlike the MCAD, EEOC procedures do not include an agency hearing. The steps are as follows:

1. The grievant is interviewed by an EEOC staff member, who helps in the filling out of the EEOC complaint.
2. The investigator requests a position statement from the employer and may send a list of questions (called interrogatories).
3. The EEOC makes a finding of reasonable cause if the investigation indicates that discrimination has occurred. If the commission's investigation fails to find reasonable cause, the grievant will be issued a right-to-sue letter, which allows the grievant to file the case in court.
4. If reasonable cause is found, the EEOC begins conciliation efforts to try to resolve the matter. If these efforts fail, the EEOC decides whether to file a lawsuit in court or issue the grievant a right-to-sue letter. If a suit is filed, the EEOC will represent the grievant at no charge.

Only a few cases are filed in court by the EEOC. The vast majority not settled are returned to claimants with right-to sue letters. This puts the burden on the claimant to file a private lawsuit, which must be done within ninety days. If he or she cannot afford a private attorney, he or she can go to federal court and request that an attorney be appointed to represent them.

Retaliatory Action:

Any retaliatory action of any kind taken against the grievant as a result of that person's seeking redress under these procedures, cooperating in an investigation, or otherwise participating in any activities under these procedures is prohibited and shall be regarded as a separate and distinct grievable matter under this procedure.

Personnel Directors/Affirmative Action Officers - Scope of Authority:

The Personnel Directors/Affirmative Action Officers are granted the authority to carry out the following activities:

1. To receive and attempt to resolve complaints on an informal basis;
2. To provide aggrieved persons with information and advice on equal opportunity procedures, including local, state and federal redress procedures, including proper notification and filing for affirmative action complaints. The Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer shall inform the grievant of his/her right to sue in court;
3. To take any other steps which may assist in the resolution of the problem, prior to filing a formal complaint;
4. To assist in preparing a formal complaint to HRC/ MCAD/ EEOC, etc., of alleged discrimination based on race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, disabled, or Veteran status;
5. The aggrieved person and the Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer shall be free from restraint, interference, coercion, discrimination, or reprisal in connection with the program or grievance. The Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer shall not reveal the identity of any aggrieved person who comes for consultation, except when authorized to do so by the aggrieved person;
6. The Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer shall make every effort to resolve the problem informally. To this end, he/she shall, if requested by the grievant, assist in discussion with the supervisor, or any other party to the problem, and may take other steps which may assist in the resolution of the problem;
7. The grievant has the right to be accompanied, represented and advised by a representative or attorney of his/her choice. If the aggrieved person and /or his or her representative is an employee of the City, they shall be given a reasonable number of

- working hours to prepare and present a request for a solution of the grievance;
8. The Personnel Director/Affirmative Action Officer shall have twenty (20) working days to resolve the grievance before the grievant may file a formal complaint to the HRC/MCAD/EEOC ; and
 9. Nothing contained herein shall be construed to deny a grievant the right to make a direct complaint to HRC/ MCAD/EEOC, etc.

Disparate Impact: The result of an employer action or policy not unlawful on its face which affects one or more classes of employees differently than other classes of employees. In anti-discrimination law, concern with disparate impact deals with unequal treatment received by members of a protected class or classes. LAWS & REGULATIONS

FEDERAL LAWS

TITLE VII OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS ACTS OF 1964 (TITLE VII)

Title VII is the most far-reaching federal law on employment discrimination. Title VII prohibits all discrimination in employment because of race, color, sex, national origin, or religion. Title VII provides for an administrative and judicial enforcement scheme. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission is the federal agency responsible for investigating an employee's claim of discrimination under Title VII. The federal courts have final responsibility for enforcing Title VII.

AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT OF 1967 (ADEA)

The ADEA prohibits discrimination against applicants or employees who are 40 years and older. A limited exemption applies to bona fide executives and high policy-making employees as they are defined in the ADEA. The ADEA provides for a similar enforcement procedure as Title VII.

EQUAL PAY ACT OF 1963

The Equal Pay Act prohibits wage discrimination based on sex where the employees in question are performing work requiring equal skill, effort, and responsibility, and which are performed under similar working conditions. The Equal pay Act also contains four exceptions to the equal pay for equal work requirement. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission is responsible for administering this law. Unlike Title VII and the ADEA, however, the filing of the charge with the Commission is not a prerequisite to filing suit under the Equal Pay Act.

CIVIL RIGHTS ACT OF 1966 (SECTION 1981)

Section 1981 prohibits discrimination on the basis of race or color in the making and enforcement of employment contracts. Unlike other anti-discrimination statutes, Section 1981 does not cover sex, age, religion, handicap, or other claims of discrimination. Enforcement of Section 1981 is limited to lawsuits.

REHABILITATION ACT OF 1973

This law prohibits discrimination against physically or mentally handicapped persons by federal contractors and requires that such contractors establish a separate affirmative action program to employ qualified handicapped individuals. Another section of this law prohibits employers receiving federal grants or funding from discrimination against employees because of their handicap. The Department of Labor's Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs is the designated enforcement agency.

THE VIETNAM ERA VETERANS READJUSTMENT ASSISTANCE ACT

This law prohibits discrimination against disabled veterans and veterans of the Vietnam era. This law requires federal contractors to undertake affirmative action measures on behalf of qualified veterans of the Vietnam era during the first four years after discharge, and qualified disabled veterans throughout their working life. The Department of Labor's Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs is also responsible for administering this law.

IMMIGRATION REFORM AND CONTROL ACT OF 1986 (IRCA)

The IRCA requires all employers to verify that all employees hired after November 6, 1986, are legally authorized to work in the United States. The IRCA also prohibits employers of four or more employees from discrimination on the basis of national origin or citizenship. The Department of Justice is responsible for enforcing the IRCA.

AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT OF 1990 (ADA)

The ADA prohibits handicap discrimination in employment in a broader sense than the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. The ADA became effective in July 1992 for employers with 25 or more employees and in July 1994 for employers with 15 or more employees. The ADA is enforced by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

EXECUTIVE ORDER 11246

Executive Order 11246 of September 24, 1965, prohibits certain federal contractors from discriminating on the basis of race, color, religion, sex or national origin. This order also requires that covered contractors develop a written affirmative action program to employ and encourage the advancement of women and racial minorities. This order is enforced by the Department of Labor's Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs. This office has issued regulations which, among other things, specify the contents of affirmative action programs, and what federal contractors can expect in a compliance review.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS ACT OF 1991

This Act expands the damages available under Title VII and provides a right to a jury trial in most cases based upon Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VII), the American with Disabilities Act (ADA) and the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. Individuals alleging intentional violations of Title VII, the ADA or the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 may now recover compensatory and punitive damages. The Act reemphasizes the disparate impact theory in which an individual does not need to prove that an employer intended to discriminate but that the employer's practices disproportionately affect classes of persons protected by Title VII. The federal courts have final responsibility for enforcing the Act.

MASSACHUSETTS LAWS

MASSACHUSETTS FAIR EMPLOYMENT PRACTICE LAW, G.L. c.151B, s4

This law prohibits employment practices that discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, creed, national origin, age, sex, sexual orientation, ancestry, or disability. Under this statute, the prohibition against sex discrimination includes sexual harassment. This statute covers employers with six or more employees. The Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination is the State agency responsible for enforcing this law.

MASSACHUSETTS AGE DISCRIMINATION LAW, G.L. o.149, s24A

Massachusetts also has a separate age discrimination law that covers all private sector employers and prohibits employment practices that discriminate against individuals over the age of 40. This law is enforced by the Department of Labor and Industries.

MASSACHUSETTS EQUAL PAY LAW, G.L. C.149, s105A

This law prohibits employers from paying female employees less than male employees for work of like or comparable character or from discriminating in any other way in the payment of wages on the basis of sex, unless such differences are based on seniority. The Department of Labor and Industries is the state agency responsible for administering this law.

MASSACHUSETTS EQUAL RIGHTS LAW, G.L. c.93, s102

This law provides that "all persons within the Commonwealth, regardless of sex, race, creed, or national origin, shall have, except as otherwise provided or permitted by law, the same rights enjoyed by white male citizens, to make and enforce contracts..." An individual who believes his/her rights under this statute have been violated may sue for "injunctive and other appropriate equitable relief."

GOVERNOR'S CODE OF FAIR PRACTICES - EXECUTIVE ORDER 227

This order re-affirms that non-discrimination and equal employment opportunity are the policies of the state. The order further directs each Executive Officer serving the Governor and all other state employers to take affirmative steps to insure equality of opportunity in all programs and activities of the Commonwealth.

IMPROPER OR ILLEGAL INTERVIEW QUESTION

Improper interview questions are those that do not pertain to the nature of the job or to the applicant's ability to perform that job, or those questions not asked of every candidate. They are illegal only if the information is used to make a hiring decision. For more direction, study the guide below, which illustrates ways recruiters should and should not inquire about "sensitive" areas. However, it is strongly recommended that questions bordering on any of these subjects simply not be asked. Please become familiar with the job application form (see form attached), where much of this information may be obtained. If you still have questions after reviewing this information, please consult with the Personnel Director.
